

BIODATA

HOANG QUOC ANH, Ph.D. in Analytical and Environmental Chemistry, is a lecturer at Faculty of Chemistry, University of Science, Vietnam National University, Hanoi. He received B.Sc. (2012) and M.Sc. (2015) degrees in Chemistry at University of Science, Vietnam National University, Hanoi, and Ph.D. degree in Analytical and Environmental Chemistry at Ehime University, Japan (2019). His researches focus on evaluation of contamination status, emission sources, and adverse effects of organic pollutants (POPs, PAHs, and contaminants of emerging concern) in developing countries. He has published over 50 papers in ISI/Scopus journals, over 40 papers in national journals, and over 50 symposium/conference presentations, with total citations of about 850 and h-index = 18. He has been invited reviewers of about 20 international journals.

