National Risk-based Food Safety Management Systems

Brian Gerard Bedard

The Safe Food for Growth Project (SAFEGRO)

Abstract

Internationally, countries are moving to risk-based national food safety management systems aligned with CODEX, to promote trade and facilitate recognition of equivalency among trading partners. International standards have been recommended for risk-based food safety system which will be reviewed, shortcomings highlighted and examples presented from the Canadian system. The presentation will also review some of the challenges and opportunities for adoption of a risk-based food safety system in Vietnam.
